LEAF&BOTANICS

fruitfully brings the goodness of plants to your skin and your heart

You stand still, look down at your feet, and become aware of the beautiful flowers. The color of the leaves rustling in the trees. The scent of flowers and fruit on the breeze. There are plants all around us. Their beauty and freshness speak directly to our hearts just by looking at them, but they also contain ingredients that are useful in maintaining healthy, vibrant skin. Dried herbs, as their name implies, are made from carefully dried leaves and flowers. Extracts contain ingredients from fruit and leaves that are beneficial to both skin and hair. Plant oils maintain smooth, moist skin. Natural essential oils, as their name implies, distill plant fragrances down to their essence. LEAF&BOTANICS is a series of washing and care products that adapt the bounties and blessings of plants to the requirements of individual items and use feels. Our daily routines are said to help regulate our emotions, from our quick, precise preparations in the morning, to the soothing, fatigue-relieving bath at night. LEAF&BOTANICS offers a moment of calm and relaxation amidst the hustle and bustle of daily life.

MOTHER SOAP

Plant-derived soap with rich foam in a variety of wash time finishes.

The frame kneading method brings out the essential cleansing power of soap

The high soap ratio in this product produces a clean, crisp finish. The density of its crystals makes it less vulnerable to cracking and deformation.

The gentle cleansing of frame-kneaded transparent soap

We add sugar and glycerin because of their moisturizing effects and allow the soap to slowly mature. The soft, moist finish of this soap makes it particularly popular for face washing.

The milling method retains the usefulness of materials

After the soap body is produced with the pot boiling method, emollient ingredients and adhesive ingredients are added. The creamy foam this produces does not remove excessive amounts of moisture, producing a clean, satisfying finish.

Shampoos contain liquid soap with excellent foaming properties. Ours are made with the traditional pot boiling method, using palm kernel oil and safflower oil as raw materials. Liquid soap is weakly alkaline, and is therefore an excellent cleansing ingredient for sweat, sebum, and other weakly acidic dirt. It rinses off quickly, and is less likely to leave irritating cleansing ingredients in the hair and on the skin. This shampoo adds low-irritation amino acid cleansing ingredients to achieve both satisfying cleansing power and a pleasing finish.

SKIN CARE

Sprout extracts concentrate the life force of plants
For fresh, moist, healthy skin

From time immemorial, plants have been a familiar part of human life. Among them, herbs are known as "useful plants," and over centuries of practical experience, they have come to be used as everything from spices for our food to skin care products in the form of lotions and packs. In Europe, extracts made from the sprouts of plants have long been thought to concentrate the nutrition required for plant growth. "MEBUKI (sprouts)" is a series of skin care products focused on the effects of these useful plants. Rosemary and juniper grow in the mountainous areas of Loire in northwestern France, and their sprouts are harvested by hand. Extracts from them are full of polyphenol and other ingredients useful for the skin, which is why they are formulated as moisturizing ingredients. Like plant-derived ceramide and hyaluronate, which are often included in clear and milky lotions, these extracts penetrate into the horny layer to replenish moisture and moisturizing ingredients. As they do so, they bring the skin to a fresher and healthier state. We combine them with well-balanced fragrances derived from the natural essential oils of grapefruit and lavender so that every time they are used, they produce a soft, relaxing aroma.
